Projects

C++ File Organizer – Command Line Tool (Repo Link) - Developed a command-line utility in C++ to help users automatically organize files into categorized folders based on their extensions. - The tool scans directories for files and classifies them into appropriate folders, such as Images, Documents, Videos, etc., based on file types. Automated file management reduces manual sorting effort and enhances organization, saving time for users. - Implemented File Handling features using the C++ Standard Library to interact with the file system and create directories. Technology Used: C++, File Handling, Command-Line Interface (CLI)	Feb'25
WorkFlow – Task Management Web App (Live Link) - Built a task management web application using HTML, CSS, and JavaScript to help users organize and manage their daily tasks efficiently. - Allows users to add, edit, and delete tasks. - Utilized local storage to ensure data persistence, enabling users to save tasks without the need for server-side storage. - Designed a simple yet user-friendly interface, allowing users to track pending and completed tasks easily. Technology Used: HTML, CSS, JavaScript, Local Storage	Oct'24
